The School of Medicine was established in 1936, the same decade Brisbane City Hall opened, the Forgan Smith building was completed and the Mayne family donated their estate to UQ for medical education.

Students have been the lifeblood of the School of Medicine since the first class enrolled in 1936. Since that time, more than 15,000 students have graduated from our program to enter the health workforce in Queensland, Australia, and throughout the world. Nearly 6,500 of the School’s Alumni reside within Queensland and teach back into the medical program, which now enrols over 500 students each year.

On every measure, School of Medicine research is outstanding. This research effort targets virtually all of the medical disciplines with researchers aiming to reshape our understanding of disease and change existing paradigms of care.

Distinguished alumni include Dr. Jane Wilson (UQ’s Acting Chancellor and business leader), Dr. Mark Loane (former rugby player and distinguished ophthalmologist) and Dr. Gary Roubin (inventor of the coronary stent and prominent cardiologist).

The 80th anniversary is an opportunity to pay tribute to the outstanding medical talent to come out of Queensland since 1936, to celebrate past achievements and provide a platform to share our vision for the future. Most of all, it is a fitting opportunity to reflect on the tangible impact of our work.

It requires commitment, time and resources. Will you join us on our journey?

I invite you to celebrate our achievements to date and encourage you to join us in making an investment into the future of medical education and research.

Professor Darrell Crawford
Head, School of Medicine
The Event

One of the biggest gatherings of medical professionals in Queensland’s history will take place in August 2016 to celebrate the 80th anniversary of the state’s oldest medical school at The University of Queensland.

We invite you to attend our special anniversary gala ball dedicated to reflecting on the past 80 years and peering into the future of healthcare and discovery.

7pm, Saturday 27th August
Brisbane City Hall

A black tie evening of elegance, a three course dinner and entertainment from the Queensland Medical Orchestra and the Rush Band.

Our guest list encompasses key members of the UQ Senate, including the Vice-Chancellor and President Professor Peter Høj; science, medical, finance and professional based companies; academics and medical professionals from around Australia; CEOs; philanthropists; industry groups and media.
